NOTICE

The manufacture, importation, sale, or transfer of any large-capacity magazine, except to specifically designated parties and under specified conditions (including law enforcement use, loans for service/repair, et al.) is prohibited by law. A large-capacity magazine is defined as any ammunition feeding device with the capacity to accept more than 10 rounds but shall not include any .22 caliber tube ammunition feeding device, or a magazine that has been permanently altered so that it cannot accommodate more than ten rounds.

Record keeping requirements include the maintenance of records of sales for all transactions recorded on the Large-Capacity Magazine Report (BOF 1002), and must include a photocopy of the front and back of the credentials of the peace officer or a business card from the purchasing Federal Law Enforcement personnel. A copy of the credential or business card shall be retained and attached to the BOF 1002. The Federal Law Enforcement personnel's credentials shall be verified by the Permittee. The records must be maintained at the dealership location for three years and, upon request, be made available to law enforcement.

Pursuant to Penal Code section 32315, you must have a permit issued by the DOJ to engage in the import or export of large-capacity magazines. Large-Capacity Magazine Permits will be issued, upon request, to licensed firearms dealers on the DOJ Centralized List of Firearms Dealers whose businesses have a bona fide marketplace for the import or export of large-capacity magazines. Large-capacity magazine permittees are required to maintain acquisition and disposition transaction records of the importation and exportation of large-capacity magazines. Large-capacity magazine sales shall be recorded on the BOF 1002. The records must be maintained at the dealership location for three years and upon request, be made available to law enforcement.

Whenever dealerships have multiple licensees, all licensees must sign this application form. There is no additional fee for the permit. However, active status on the DOJ Centralized List of Firearms Dealers is required. The permit is valid for the calendar year term, provided the permittee abides by the conditions and limitations of the permit, and must be renewed annually with the Centralized List of Firearms Dealers Renewal Transmittal.
