4.01 A grievance is defined as any difference between an employee, group of employees and/or the Union on the one hand, and the employer on the other hand, concerning the interpretation, application, administration or alleged violation of this agreement.

4.02 It is the mutual desire of the parties that complaints of employees shall be addressed as quickly as possible and it is understood that any employee has no grievance until the employee has first given the appropriate immediate supervisor concerned, with or without a Union Steward of the employee's choice, an opportunity to address the complaint.

If an employee has a complaint, it shall be discussed with the appropriate immediate supervisor within thirty (30) days after the employee would reasonably be expected to have become aware of the circumstances given rise to the complaint. The appropriate immediate supervisor shall be allowed five (5) days to seek information and advice and to communicate the answer to the complainant. Failing settlement, it may then be taken up as a grievance within five (5) days following the supervisor's decision.

The parties will mutually agree upon a mediator with the understanding that the cost of the mediator will be shared equally.

Failing settlement at mediation, either party within forty-five (45) days after the last day of mediation may refer the grievance to arbitration in accordance with the Arbitration procedure in Article 4.06.

4.04 At any step of this procedure, timelines may be extended by mutual agreement of the parties.

- d) For internal applicants, seniority will be the determining factor in applications for comparable or lesser classifications. For internal applicants applying to a higher rated classification, seniority will be a consideration along with qualifications and interview scores.
- e) In the case of a successful internal applicant posting into a higher rated classification, there shall be a ninety (90) day trial period for this position. In the event that the trial period is not successfully completed, the employee shall return to her former position and rate of pay. Should there be any significant change in the classification covered by this Agreement, the rate of pay shall be subject to joint consultation between the Employer and the Union. If the parties are unable to agree as to the classification and/or rate of pay of the job in question, such dispute shall be submitted to the grievance procedure and arbitration. The new rate shall become retroactive to the time the position or significant increase in volume of work or responsibilities were assumed by the employee. The above will come into effect when both parties mutually agree to job descriptions.

- 8.03 When an employee in a lower paying classification is assigned to substitute for an employee in a higher paying classification during absences of three (3) days or more, including when a statutory holiday falls within the five (5) day period, the employee shall be paid the applicable higher rate of pay of the employee for whom she is substituting. The applicable higher rate of pay shall be a rate no lower than her present rate. No employee will relieve another employee for more than six (6) months at which time the position becomes subject to the posting procedure in Article 8.01.
