MOVING OFF ON A RED LIGHT

Dear Colleagues

The NJC has agreed a temporary approach to the issue of moving off on a red light. As members may be aware, the company and the union are currently working on a possible national grievance and disciplinary procedure and we hope that if we reach an agreement on this there will be a final resolution to the position on the issue of moving off on a red light.

In the interim moving off on a red light will not necessarily be treated as gross misconduct. This seems to be a more flexible approach than the previous position where the NJC trade union side believed the matter was increasingly treated as gross misconduct in all cases.
