

YOUTH ART MONTH IDEAS TO USE

Some are free, some are easy, some take some time and planning, some take a lot more effort, but after all aren't you doing this because you know how important art education is?

Just pick one or more to help get the word out. Then let us know what you did.

- Put up a bulletin board declaring March as Youth Art Month
- have a schoolwide art show
- have a districtwide art show
- have your principal mention YAM during announcements
- have your principal read an appropriate art quote everyday or every week during the month
- get endorsements signed by the principal, superintendent, and other officials and important community members
- get a proclamation signed by the mayor
- have students participate in the YAM flag design contest
- contact local agencies (hospitals, restaurants, banks, offices, retail shops, fast food establishments) to display student work
- arrange for student demonstrations in banks, stores, shopping centers
- plan with the local senior citizens center to host the YAM flag design winners
- hand out one page flyers with information about YAM and the benefits of art education
- frame student-made work and present to mayors, legislators, etc.
- have students create artwork and write about it, then mail to family, friends, administrators, etc.
- send out student made postcards to everyone
- contact your street department to hang student created YAM banners during the month of March
- contact local billboard company about using YAM artwork
- ask merchants to invite students to design newspaper ads
- encourage students to wear primary, secondary colors, patterns etc.(tee & sweatshirts without artwork or words) to be part of "wearable" art on different days of the week or month
- student designed buttons
- edible art
- store windows painted by students
- grocery bags designed by using student artwork (do not use waterbased markers)
- make specialty tags for the faculty to wear during the month of March
- make cards for lunch trays for hospital patients, nursing homes, cafeterias, etc.
- send letters home via students inviting parents (and /or other relatives) to hang their child's art work in their place of business to honor YAM
- collect quotes in support of art education from leading citizens
- have the school and public library feature books on children's art, art careers etc. during the month
- have an art festival – designate a whole school day devoted to nothing but art activities
- arrange for discussions, talks, films, etc.
- book of teacher caricatures drawn by students
- traveling art shows
- living art
- create a an art game (trivia, name that artist, Art Jeopardy, etc) for your class or school to play during the month
- create a calendar of art activities for each day of March, distribute to students and teachers
- ask your technology department to scan your YAM flag design winners for computer screen savers
- add YAM information to your school's web page
- arrange Family Fun Art workshops after school or evenings
- and the list could go on and on and on.....
