

Ohioans want clean and cheap energy

Dear Northeast Ohio Public Energy Council (NOPEC) Board Members:

FirstEnergy's decision to rely on expensive, obsolete and polluting Lake Erie coal plants to provide electricity is giving Ohioans cancer, strokes, heart disease and lung disease. These coal plants are permanently damaging Lake Erie, the drinking water source for 11 million people.

Things are changing: today most of the electricity on the market does not come from coal. I urge you to take responsibility for where our electricity comes from. Please use your negotiating power to find us an energy provider who does not use coal. We insist on the cheapest and cleanest energy available on the market, whether it is provided by FirstEnergy or another utility.
