

ACTU Indigenous Leadership Program Western Australia 9 – 13 June 2014

Many Australian unions are engaging with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander members and communities through their representative structures, industrial campaigns and multilateral employment and community agreements.

A natural progression from this innovative and enhanced engagement is the potential to harness and increase Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander representation in unions as organisers, advocates, workplace leaders and elected leaders.

The ACTU and ACTU Indigenous Committee believe that providing foundational leadership training to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander members already engaged in their unions will see more Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander unionists engage confidently with their union and within the union movement more broadly.

Goals:

The goals of the program are:

- To increase the engagement of Indigenous activists in the union movement;
- To empower indigenous leaders;
- To develop potential as future union/union-community organisers;
- To increase unions strategic engagement with indigenous workers and communities.

The program will include in class training and a one day placement with the participants' unions.

There is no cost for this training course, however unions will be responsible for organising any travel/accommodation for regional participants.
