

Terry Goddard – biography

Terry Goddard is running to bring his wide variety of effective public service as Arizona AG, Mayor of Phoenix, federal housing official, CAP Board Member and teacher to the Secretary of State's Office.

A Tucson native and ASU College of Law graduate, Terry was elected Attorney General in 2002 and reelected in 2006. During his 8 years in office, he won national attention for protecting consumers and fighting transnational organized crime. He made significant progress in attacking drug cartel money laundering, seizing approximately $20 million and negotiating an historic $94 million settlement with Western Union in February, 2010. That year, Terry received the Kelly-Wyman Award, the highest recognition given by his fellow Attorneys General, in recognition of his excellent work fighting border crime and consumer fraud.

Terry was elected Mayor of Phoenix four times, leading the City from 1983 to 1990. In those years, the City greatly increased citizen participation in government, expanded and modernized law enforcement, revitalized downtown, and set up nationally recognized programs in economic development, the arts and historic preservation. He put together the Phoenix Futures Forum, an innovative public goal-setting effort that engaged almost 10,000 citizens in planning the future of their City. Terry was named "Municipal Leader of the Year" by City and County Magazine and was elected President of the National League of Cities in 1988. Phoenix was recognized as an All American City during his tenure.

Terry was elected to the Board of the Central Arizona Water Conservation District in 2000, stepping down when he became the AG in 2003. He was elected to another term on the CAWCD Board in 2012 representing Maricopa County. From 1995 to 2002, Terry was the Arizona Director for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Prior to attending law school, Terry served on active duty in the US Navy from 1970 to 1972. He retired as a commander after 27 years in the Naval Reserve.

Currently, Mr. Goddard is Senior Counsel with the international law firm of Dentons, and a Professor of Practice at ASU's School of Public Affairs. Last year, he was selected a Wasserstein Fellow at Harvard Law School. Terry has written and spoken extensively about law enforcement issues involving the Southwest border as a Senior Fellow at the American Immigration Council and a Distinguished Associate at the Morrison Institute of Public Affairs.

Terry's father, Sam Goddard, was elected Arizona governor in 1964. Terry lives in downtown Phoenix with his wife Monica and teenage son.