

Two voting process “bugs” create basic inequalities in the voting franchise, lead to polarization, manipulation and disillusion

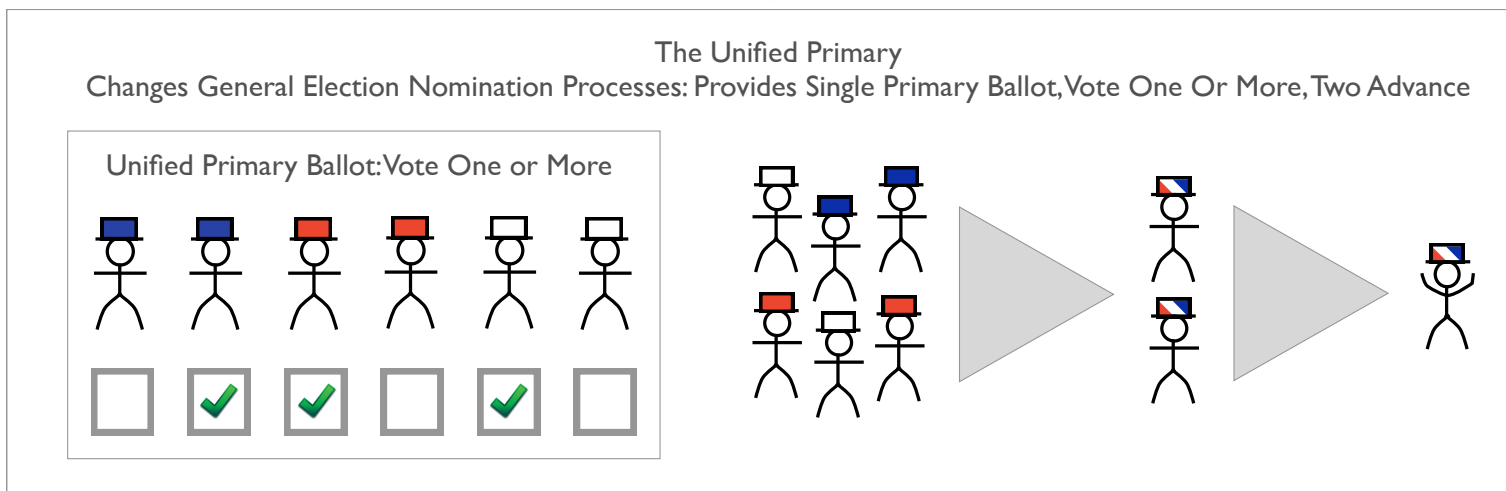

#1 - The Exclusion Bug - 30.9% independents + 19.7% dominated majors = 50.6% of us are silenced

#2 - Vote splitting, the spoiler effect, “don’t waste your vote, vote for the lesser evil.”
Makes a name recognition money race. Your vote weight = $1/\text{#youlike}$. Not scalable, and not fair

The Solution: Equalize the Vote

We all get a ballot that shows all the candidates, and we can support all we like. The two most supported advance, and we can all choose between them. Candidates campaign to all and we all get more choice and an equal voice.
