Fair Pay for NHS Staff

Petition to the Secretary of State for Health

NHS workers have been through 5 years of pay freezes and pay caps. It's had a massive impact on the living standards of healthcare staff, and most are now at least 10% worse off than when the government came to power in 2010.

Now George Osborne has announced that the NHS pay cap will be extended yet again. Pay increases will be capped at 1% this year, with a loophole meaning that 60% of staff in England won't even get that. It's just not enough for NHS staff to meet the rising cost of living.

I'm angry that yet again pay for NHS workers is being held back. NHS staff deliver life-saving services to the public, often under extreme duress. Yet their pay has decreased in real terms by around 10% since 2010. They're facing huge changes to their workplaces and rising demand, and they deserve fair pay for the vital work they do. Please remove the latest cap and provide a fair deal for NHS workers.
