

Working together to end
sexual & domestic violence

Introducing Rev. Yvonne DeVaughn, a certified FaithTrust Institute Presenter.

Rev. Yvonne DeVaughn spent much of her professional life as a human resources professional, planner, and benefits administrator for the University of California. This included 15 years experience advising and coaching people on managing conflict, improving morale, and clarifying vision and purpose.

For many years Rev. DeVaughn has devoted much of her time to supporting the healing of victims of sexual abuse. She is currently the Director of the Advocacy for Victims of Abuse Ministry for the Evangelical Covenant Churches. Rev. DeVaughn has presented and taught workshops in both faith-based and secular environments, from prisons to churches, in the United States, Latin America, and Africa.

Rev. DeVaughn shares her personal story of long-term childhood sexual abuse in her presentations and workshops and suggests ways to help individuals on the journey to recovery and hope. She encourages many paths to healing including art, the practice of faith, individual and group counseling, journaling, and taking small steps to break the silence.

Rev. DeVaughn is an accomplished Christian songwriter and ceramicist. She has been married for 41 years, is the mother of two, and has four grandchildren.
