Too many young workers are struggling to keep their head above water.

Unpaid internships and pushing young workers into unpaid work through dead end schemes like Work for the Dole and the $4.00 per hour PaTH program are actually holding younger workers back.

Rates of pay for the few apprenticeships and traineeships that are available are well below a living wage.

The Morrison Government has cut penalty rates and failed to act to end wage theft. These failures impact young workers hard as their costs of education, housing and transport are all up.

At the same time the Morrison Government wants to give the big banks $17 billion in tax cuts and CEO pay is going up, while pay rises for working people are at record lows.

The system is out of balance.

Big business has too much power and employers can just say no to fair pay rises.

The rules that made sure working people got fair pay rises are broken.

We need new rules to rebalance the system.

Young workers need rights at work that give them the power they need to win pay rises.

Australia needs a pay rise. Young workers need a pay rise.

We need to Change the Rules so young workers get their fair share.
