

Des Moines Groups Target Racial Profiling

Iowa Public Radio News

Published October 1, 2013 at 5:54 PM CDT

IPR's Joyce Russell

Activist groups launched a project they hope will illustrate how common racial profiling is in and around Des Moines. The ACLU, the NAACP, and a coalition of churches known as AMOS are inviting people of color to come forward with their stories to document allegations that law enforcement targets individuals solely because of their race.

Link: <https://www.iowapublicradio.org/2013-10-01/des-moines-groups-target-racial-profiling>