

Sign: Japan - Stop Hunting Whales!

For the first time in 31 years, Japan has resumed the practice of commercially hunting whales. For years, under the guise of scientific research, Japan hunted whales which were ultimately consumed. In December 2018, Japan left the International Whaling Commission, which bans whale hunting to protect dwindling populations. On July 1, commercial whale hunters hit the seas and promptly killed a minke whale. A whale hunter stated, "We were able to catch a good whale. It's going to be delicious."

Whales are under siege thanks to increasingly polluted waters - must they be hunted and slaughtered as well?

Sea Shepherd Founder, Captain Paul Watson said, "Whaling in Japan is a dying industry that survives only by the politically motivated injection of massive government subsidies. We have driven the Japanese whalers from the Southern Hemisphere, and now their illegal slaughter continues in their own waters, second in numbers only to the unlawful killing of whales in Norwegian waters."

Please join us as we ask the Japanese Prime Minister to join the International Whaling Commission once again and halt the commercial hunting of whales - they must be protected, before they are gone forever.

We have such a wonderful variety of life that is rare and possibly a one off in the universe. We should protect it rather than destroy it, respect the beauty of having such amazing species and allow them to enjoy freedom and life as we do. Humans did not create this unique mammal, that feels, thinks and loves, so we have no right to murder it. The ocean is it's home as the land is ours and it should be left that way. Please understand that taking life is not leading by example, it filters throughout society and the cruel follow suit. We do not have to consume everything, sometimes we have to abstain and change the rules, it's time to care for the only home that we have and the animals that we were blessed to share it with x It's also time to write a better future and stop the suffering of all sentient beings.
