

SEASONS GREETINGS

A religious festival is a special time and opportunity not only to remember the humble lives of the religion founders, but also to extend our kindness and compassion to all people, animals and plants that share this planet Earth with us.

Please make special effort during this festive season to help alleviate the climate change by buying and eating less meat and observing at least one meat-free-day - it is good for your health, it is good for the poor, it is good for the animals and it is good for our whole Planet.

Happy Celebrations
