THIS WORKSHOP WILL EXPLORE:

This one day workshop offers introductory tools and skills in addressing the risk of suicide in refugees and asylum seekers. The workshop explores specific risk and protective factors for suicide in asylum seekers and refugees, with the aim of increasing participants’ insight into the challenges faced by this population and how these challenges interact with risk of suicide. Participants will be introduced to a suicide risk assessment framework and apply this framework to working with refugees and asylum seekers. The workshop will also look at the impact of working with suicidality on the worker themselves, with a focus on self-care.
