Expectations

Notice from the pictures, people dress for success. Recruiters who speak at our seminars have hired (and will hire) our attendees. We want you to be ready in case our speaker has a job that is suitable for you.

The Career-Confidence.org team operates a multi-site and multi-state service to motivated job seekers. Saturdays are our preferred time to meet because this is when our professional experts are most available. For your convenience, we do have seminars on other days of the week. Be sure to check our website www.career-confidence.org for up-to-date times, locations, topics and all other information. We also can be found on Facebook, LinkedIn and MeetUp.

Career-Confidence.org welcomes and encourages participation of motivated job seekers of all political persuasions, religious affiliation, sexual orientation, race, immigration status, professional skill set and every other designation. Our attendees' motivation unites them. Our speakers are experts in the employment process and volunteer because of their compassionate nature. While there is a Christian component (subset) of our team, our seminars function far better when all types of motivated, caring professionals are in the room. At the end of our seminars, there is often an 8-minute Christian story. A few attendees elect to leave prior to these stories which is perfectly acceptable to us.
