Dear Commissioners,

In the past I have heard you say that you weigh all testimony and public comment equally, but I have noticed you respond only to those who call in - versus those who have emailed you from the onset of this process (present company included). While I hesitate to announce my own disabilities to the broader world, I have a speech impediment that makes calling into public meetings difficult. I understand not every public comment requires a response, but I do hope that you'll consider showing some acknowledgment to some of the digital comments you receive - particularly as you have changed your previous model of opening up the lines at the beginning and end of every meeting.

With that said, a few questions:

- 1. Visualization Notes. I noticed your Outreach staff takes notes with regards to all visualization requests made. If written transcripts will not be made available within 24-48 hours of meetings, might it be possible to publish these notes in the minimum?
- 2. Commissioner Absence Policy. Does the commission have a general philosophy on how commissioner absences are addressed? I have noticed several commissioners, namely Commissioner LeMons and Commissioner Taylor have not participated in many of the discussions of late. Will they be rejoining the commission soon? Will they be briefed on what they missed? Might you be able to shed some light on how the commission will address this - particularly as we move into these decisive months ahead? Without easily scannable transcripts, how will they catch up on hours and hours of discussion?

- 3. Chair Rotations. Also - do you have a published list of the chair rotations? Can you remind us the order after Commissioner Toledo takes over as chair?

Thank you.
