Dear members of the Citizens Redistricting Commission,

I'm writing to ask that you keep my district intact. Moving the lines significantly in any direction would reduce the things we have in common and dilute our sense of mutual care for one another. I grew up in Sonoma County but currently live in Mendocino, and both have much in common. Our political representation feels representative to me, and is focused on things we may not care about equally, but which do affect us equally, notably the increase in wildfires.

We're a rural district, with wild spaces and an economy that invites others to share in them with us. A Big city would tend to draw more oxygen if it's lumped in alongside our very small-town-driven area. Please leave the lines as they are. We're diverse as it is, and that's where our strength and potential lies.

Thanks for your consideration,
Sincerely,

Heather Seggel
