Dear Commissioners,

It is great that you have provided a free software that any Californian can use to draw and submit a map. However, many of us in large cities live in communities within those cities. Unfortunately, for Los Angeles those community lines are not accessible through the Draw My Community application. This makes it difficult for those of us who want to keep our communities whole to draw maps without hiring an expert. The Los Angeles Redistricting Commission has added communities and neighborhood council boundaries to their software and it has allowed for numerous non-professional submissions. I would request that you do the same.

Stuart
