CicLAvia—Mid City Meets Pico Union marks the halfway point of the 2019 CicLAvia season and the start of summer. This 31st edition of CicLAvia invites us back to a stretch of Venice Blvd we explored together in 2013 during CicLAvia—To the Sea, and opens portions of Washington Blvd and 7th Ave for people to use as recreational space for the first time. We're thrilled to turn these iconic streets through Pico Union, Mid City, Harvard Heights, Arlington Heights, and Angelus Vista into a playground for all. What better way to kick off summer than with fresh adventures, revisiting old friends, making new ones, and creating memories together.

Slow down, take your time, and wander, explore, play, and connect with the sights, sounds, and people at CicLAvia. Enjoy today's event, have a great summer, and mark your calendars for CicLAvia—Meet the Hollywoods, presented by Metro on August 18.

LOCAL GEMS ALONG AND NEAR THE ROUTE

- 1

Loyola High School

1901 Venice Blvd

Loyola High School of Los Angeles is the oldest continuously run educational institution in the region. The school first opened as Saint Vincent's college in 1865. Today, as a Jesuit preparatory school for young men, it has been in its current location since 1917.
- 2

Rosedale Cemetery

1831 W Washington Blvd

Founded in 1884, the Angelus Rosedale Cemetery is one of the earliest cemeteries in the City of Los Angeles. Notably, the cemetery is the burial place of several former Los Angeles mayors, the first in the city to welcome Angelenos of every race and faith, and one of the original cemeteries in the nation to incorporate thoughtful landscaping to produce a more peaceful setting.
- 3

St. Sophia Greek Cathedral

1324 Normandie Ave

With an ornate interior and standout architecture, the Greek Orthodox St. Sophia Cathedral is a landmark in the Pico Union neighborhood. When the cathedral was built in 1952, the area was known as the Greek section of Central Los Angeles.
- 4

Lucy E. Wheeler Residence

2175 Cambridge St

According to the Los Angeles Conservancy, "designed by Charles and Henry Greene, the Wheeler residence is the last remaining example of the firm's work in the City of Los Angeles. This Craftsman-style residence was commissioned by Miss Lucy Wheeler, the proprietor of a stenography and mimeograph service."
- 5

Ray Charles Memorial Library

2107 W Washington Blvd

Home of the Ray Charles Foundation and the former home and recording studio of the legendary musician, the Ray Charles Memorial Library is a tribute to his life and lasting legacy. Today, the space serves as a museum with interactive exhibits, viewable by appointment only.

- 6

Alibi Coffee and START Los Angeles

2268 Venice Blvd

Proudly claiming to be the first coffee roaster in the neighborhood, founders Will Hyndman and Derek Jaschke set out to bring the community together over coffee. At Alibi, they roast everything in-house and believe coffee is a "conduit for great ideas and relationships." While there, make sure to also check out the art gallery next door, START Los Angeles, and the mural yard adjacent to the cafe.
- 7

Catch One

4067 W Pico Blvd

Opened in 1973, Jewel's Catch One was the first disco nightclub to cater to LA's black LGBTQ+ community. Founder Jewel Thais Williams is lauded for having defied odds while pioneering a safe place for this community. Sold in 2016 and now called Catch One, it continues as a bustling club, featuring DJs, electronic music, and rappers.
- 8

The Underground Museum

3508 W Washington Blvd

Free and open to the public, The Underground Museum was founded in 2012 by the late Noah Davis and his wife, artist Karon Davis. Don't miss their current exhibition, Roy DeCarava: The Work of Art.
- 9

Nate Holden Performing Arts Center

4708 W Washington Blvd

Operated by the Ebony Repertory Theatre, the Nate Holden Performing Arts Center is a state-of-the-art facility showcasing diverse performances from around the world.

- 10

St. Elmo Village

4830 St Elmo Dr

This artist community, founded by Rozzell and Roderick Sykes, is a group of apartments and bungalows, connected by vibrant murals and artwork throughout. Celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, St. Elmo Village continues to thrive as an open space for artists of all ages to learn, grow, and express themselves.
