1 Madrid Theatre

21622 Sherman Way

Madrid Theatre is a state-of-the-art performance facility for professional, community, and student productions. It includes an expansive exhibit space for visual artists, and an arena for Madrid Theatre productions.

2 Antique Row

Sherman Way, between Owensmouth Ave and Alabama Ave

Across from Madrid Theatre is Antique Row, a series of brick buildings from the 1920s and 1930s (that survived the Northridge earthquake). It's a destination spot for buying and selling rare antiques.

3 Orange Line Bikeway

Along the Metro Orange Line Busway

Starting (or ending) on the Orange Line Bikeway gives cyclists roughly 15 miles of protected riding with hidden LA scenery, including leafy canopies and artists' murals. This bike route runs along the Metro Orange Line from North Hollywood to Chatsworth, and provides a safe, traffic-free means of traversing the heart of the San Fernando Valley.

4 The Victorian

19725 Sherman Way

A wonderful Valley oddity: The Victorian, a 75-foot tall Queen Anne-style building that was painstakingly constructed out of salvaged pieces (windows, staircases, balustrades) of similar buildings in Bunker Hill.

5 Reseda Theater

18443 Sherman Way

The Reseda Theater is a subject of redevelopment (known as Reseda Rising) to maintain the iconic theater marquee and revitalize its role in the commercial district.

6 Valley Relics Museum

7900 Balboa Blvd

The Valley Relics Museum is a large space — it occupies two entire airplane hangars at Van Nuys Airport — sporting tens of thousands of vintage signs, costumes, vehicles, and other memorabilia. Open weekends.

7 Sepulveda Basin Recreation Area

17017 Burbank Blvd

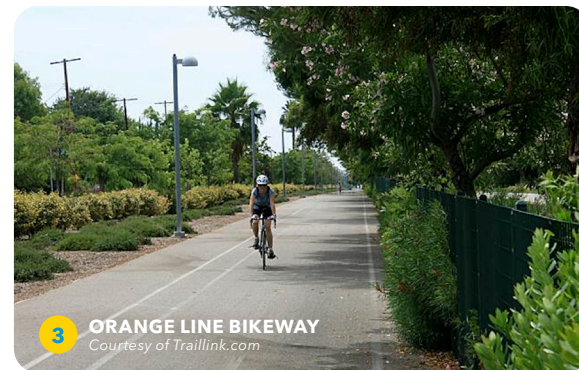

The Sepulveda Basin Recreation Area includes 2,000 acres of public parks and sports facilities — home to dozens of Valley sights. The Sepulveda Dam, built in 1941, sits at the edge of the Basin (at what was, at the time, the end of Los Angeles city limits) and near the Wildlife Preserve, replete with nature paths and hiking trails.

8 Lake Balboa Park

6300 Balboa Blvd

Lake Balboa Park comprises 80 acres at the center of the Basin, offering boat rides and fishing. With paved walking pathways, open spaces, and lots of greenery, this is a perfect place for picnics, bird watching, and enjoying the scenery.
