

Cincinnati Children Thrive

This newsletter will keep you up to date about actions taking place across Cincinnati by learning network members like you. It is a celebration of current work and new ideas.

What is our network?

We are an interconnected group of individuals and organizations learning together how to find new ideas and improve old ones so that all Cincinnati's children thrive.

The Power of One!

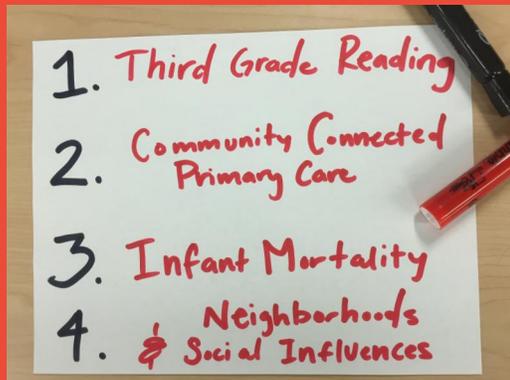

QI Corner

The QI Corner is a segment that will break down Quality Improvement methods into everyday language. The Power of One described below is an important method in Quality Improvement Science.

Close your eyes and imagine a change that didn't make sense, maybe it was a new procedure at work, or a new refrigerator installed by your landlord. Often times good people with good intentions make big changes that don't work after they are made. Changes that look good on paper don't always work in life. The power of one is about testing your way into a big change. Start with one person and test your idea. Let's say you were a landlord, instead of installing new refrigerators into every apartment in the entire apartment building at once, install one refrigerator in one apartment and see what you learn. Then, apply those learnings to the next apartment. When you are ready for all apartments in the building to receive new refrigerators, you will have an approach that makes sense based on applying your learnings. This is the power of one.

Work Streams

Four work streams are beginning their work to make Cincinnati's children the healthiest in the nation. Below are two examples of how the work groups are using the power of one!

Third Grade Reading:

One third grade teacher is partnering with one reading specialist to test daily customizing of one student's learning plan to ensure they are receiving effective reading interventions.

Neighborhood & Social Influences:

One community partner is choosing to work with one resident in one apartment building to remove employment barriers. Together they will ensure job readiness for the resident and build a successful pathway to employment.
