"I was glad to be a part of the webinar! Here's what I found useful: learning more about the QI process, the idea that measurement should not get in the way of my work and the learning to make small, temporary changes as tests before making big changes".

Children Are The Center Of Our Work!

Together, we will achieve the goals of the Learning Network by harnessing the collective wisdom and inherent motivation of all individuals focused on improved child outcomes. The network will enable families, health care providers, educators, community service providers and other formal and informal community leaders to work in a collaborative learning network. Please review our Collective Network Goals in the left hand column.

3. Eliminate disparities across neighborhoods in the health of children

4. Ensure all five year olds have a "healthy mind and body"

This Learning Network will work across family, community, organizational and funding boundaries to ensure the system works for children and their health. As we design solutions, we will view the system from the family's and child's perspectives. We believe the opportunities and solutions come from families and within their communities.

Currently, a group of talented individuals from Design Impact are conducting group interviews, stakeholder interviews, observations in community gatherings, homes, health clinics and schools and volunteering in Price Hill and Avondale.

These interviews, observations and volunteering opportunities will ground our work and provide the family's and child's perspective. The information collected and discussed will guide and generate our ideas to make Cincinnati's children the healthiest in the nation. Please see the Cincinnati Children Learning Network Timeline above.
