

2016 International Coastal Cleanup Day

September 17, 2016

Plastic pollution in and around our waterways is growing at an alarming rate and threatens South Florida’s marine life, real estate value, and tourism economy.

VolunteerCleanup.Org invites you to support Miami’s participation in International Coastal Cleanup Day - the largest single-day volunteer effort for our ocean and waterways, which includes all 50 states and over 100 countries worldwide.

2015 Miami Coastal Cleanup Day Impact

- 40 Shoreline Cleanup sites
- 2,200 Volunteers
- 17,500 pounds of debris

Volunteercleanup.org is a 501c3 non-profit that facilitates volunteers throughout the year to clean up their neighborhoods, shorelines, and waterways; identify the sources of debris; and ultimately change the behaviors that cause pollution.

At our website, you can:

- Find and volunteer for waterway cleanups in your area
- Host your own litter cleanup and recruit volunteers
- Sign up to receive weekly email notifications of upcoming cleanup events

2015 VolunteerCleanup.Org Impact

- 350 Cleanups
- 28,000 Volunteer Hours
- 100,000 pounds of debris
