

We need feminism not militarism.
Join us to divest from war and encourage U.S. financial institutions, funds, universities, religious organizations, and investors to sever financial ties with weapons companies who supply the deadly tools of war and profit from endless warfare.

Take action against BLACKROCK

BlackRock is an investment firm with more than $5.6 billion invested in Lockheed Martin!
Their CEO recently said that he was going to start holding the companies they invest in accountable for being responsible corporate citizens! So let's all take a minute to send a message to BlackRock on Facebook & Twitter to tell them what being a responsible corporate citizen really means:

*BlackRock is making a killing on killing!
You've invested billions in Lockheed Martin to profit off a corporation that creates weapons of war. Your CEO says that you want socially responsible corporate citizens, but you can't make a "positive contribution to society" if you are making a killing on killing!

*By investing millions in weapon manufacturer Lockheed Martin @BlackRock profits from weapons of war. Your CEO says that you want socially responsible corporate citizens, but you can't make a "positive contribution to society" if you are making a killing on killing!
