

Perception

By Marvin Baker, VP, Conservative Patriots Group, Inc. (CPG)

The Alaskans will vote for the candidate they perceive is the better candidate. Perception is just like hind-sight, it is wonderful. Now that the primary elections are over, we do not need any more perception between a liberal democrat, a conservative republican, or a libertarian for that matter. The future of our country is continuing on its current free fall, an impact that is eminent. It will not be pretty, but no less, pretty ugly. Alaskan voters must muster up and prevent splitting the republican vote. Bite your tongue, bite your lip, whatever it takes for you to come to grips with yourself. Vote the odds - a republican has the better chance of beating Senator Begich than a split three way or a write in; a split vote ensures Begich wins.

Any and all Senatorial candidates should consider the inevitable and do an honorable withdrawal from the senate race and strongly, unequivocally support Senatorial candidate Dan Sullivan. Our state and the United States is at stake. Let there be no misperception about that.
