THE CONSTITUTION PARTY OF GEORGIA

January 2012 News & Notes

Greetings!

The New Year is upon us, most of us have put away the Christmas holiday regalia (as some children plead to keep up the icicle lights for a while longer), and many of you have been inundated by the "election alerts" as the campaign for the Presidency moves to the South. However there is one campaign story developing here in Georgia you probably haven't heard about. I haven't seen anything on the Atlanta Journal-Constitution site. The fact that the GOP-aligned Peach Pundit political blog has nothing on the story is most curious.

The story is the heroic challenge of Cobb County resident David Welden who filed a pro se challenge questioning Barak Obama's qualifications to be placed on the Georgia Presidential Preference Primary ballot. Welden's argument is simple: the Supreme Court has defined "natural-born-citizen" as a person with two U.S. citizen parents, and Obama admits that his father was never a U.S. citizen. No Obama eligibility case to has ever addressed this specific issue. Most likely the reason why you haven't heard about this lawsuit is that Welden's case is now getting support from the Liberty Legal Foundation and Obama's legal counsel has yet to stop the action from moving forward. The next court hearing is January 26th in Atlanta. Welden's counsel Van Irion commented, "Hopefully the Georgia court will set the groundwork for victories across the country. If any court rules that Obama is not constitutionally qualified to hold the office of President, it will be a major victory and should make international news." We'll keep you posted on this development. Now on to Constitution Party news...

A Call to Action

theme is "The Rules Have Changed: Building upon Eternal Principles." Party supporters and voters disgusted with "business as usual" will meet on Friday February 10 and Saturday February 11 to hear encouraging speeches from leaders, find fellowship with others who are concerned about our state and nation and want to work with like-minded citizens, and work on the party's platform and resolutions. In addition to the outstanding speakers, this year's convention includes a Friday evening dinner event.

Our keynote speakers for 2012:

Steve Deace - Christian talk show host whose nationally syndicated talk show is heard on WGKA-AM Atlanta. His latest book, We Won't Get Fooled Again: Where the Christian Right Went Wrong and How to Make America Right Again, is an expose of the Religious Right and Conservative movement in America, where it has failed, and how to once again restore righteousness back to America.

Dr. Jody Hice - President of Let Freedom Ring Ministries; national talk show host who is heard on stations in Toccoa Falls, Helen, and Lilburn; and 2010 candidate for Congress in the 7th District. It's Now or Never: A Call to Reclaim America is his latest book. In it he informs fellow patriots about issues involving culture, religious liberty, and constitutional abuse and inspires us to get involved in the battle to restore our nation's godly heritage.

Dr. Joe Morecraft - Pastor of Chalcedon Presbyterian Church in Cumming, first state chairman of the Constitution Party of Georgia, and prolific author with books and essays on theology, economy, social issues, national defense, international relations, and constitutionalism. Morecraft is a sought-after speaker well versed in the Biblical principles of law and government. His book With Liberty and Justice for All: Christian Politics Made Simple addresses the theology of politics, the origin of civil government, the biblical functions of civil government, taxation, and more.

Also speaking will be Coastal Empire Constitution Party coordinator and former Chatham County Commissioner Jeff Rayno, Georgia Right to Life Field Director Mike Griffin, and others. Ian Bowers of Austell will portray Patrick Henry and provide a dramatic presentation of his "Give Me Liberty of Give Me Death" speech.

Resolution submissions should follow the standard format of statements of fact (whereas) followed by the call to action (resolution statement). It is strongly encouraged that the statements of fact include the constitutional provision(s) or law(s) on which the resolution is founded.
