Making Safety a Habit

RESOURCE GUIDE 2018

Celebrating... OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY & HEALTH PROFESSIONAL DAY • MAY 9th, 2018
The goal of North American Occupational Safety & Health (NAOSH) Week is to focus the attention of employers, employees, the general public and all partners in occupational safety and health on the importance of preventing injury and illness in the workplace, at home and in the community.

WE STRIVE TO:

Increase understanding of the benefits of investment in occupational safety and health.

Raise awareness of the role and contribution of safety and health professionals.

Reduce workplace injuries and illness by encouraging new safety and health activities and interest in NAOSH Week.

THE NAOSH WEEK LOGO ■ three hands forming an equilateral triangle - portrays the three participating nations - Canada, the United States and Mexico - and symbolizes joint venture, cooperation and the commitment to the common goals shared by all occupational safety and health partners. The three sides stand for partnership of the three countries in this joint occupational safety and health venture, as well as all tripartite partnerships between business, labour and governments. The connected hands illustrate assistance and cooperation on many levels - from interpersonal relationships in the workplace to international exchange.

WHY SHOULD YOU GET INVOLVED?
NAOSH Week presents an excellent opportunity to focus, reinforce and strengthen commitment to occupational safety and health. Participation and involvement in NAOSH Week has been shown to:

➟ improve attitudes towards safety
➟ increase understanding of the importance of occupational safety and health
➟ foster a safety-minded culture
➟ increase cooperation
➟ assist in team building and improve communication between employees, safety committees and safety professionals.

For over 20 years, the first full week of May each year has been recognized as North American Occupational Safety & Health (NAOSH) Week. This has been a time for employers, workers, government, labour, and many other partners in occupational health and safety to focus on preventing injury and illness in the workplace, at home, and in the community – and now’s the perfect time to make your plans for 2018!

People, purpose, and passion – mixing these three key ingredients together will lead to a week that you’ll be proud to call a success. Participating in NAOSH Week can be as simple as planning for annual health and safety training to take place each year during this week, or as elaborate as planning events and training for each day of the week and ending the week with a family BBQ. The sky’s the limit, and everyone in your organization, at home, and in the community have an opportunity to benefit from your participation. To help you plan, a road map is laid out for you in this resource guide and on the website www.naosh.ca

NAOSH Week has grown to show that this “one week” can truly last throughout year – leading to positive change in injury prevention in your workplace. All of us, no matter what our role is in an organization, have responsibilities for our own safety and the safety of those we work with. NAOSH Week is our ‘Call to Action’ – a time for all of us, throughout our country, to focus on occupational safety and health, with the ultimate goal of all workers going home safe at the end of every work day.

Remember to submit your NAOSH Week events to www.csse.org/csse_naosh_awards. Your organization could win a provincial and/or national recognition award for your efforts.

Sincerely,

Katherine Tull, CRSP
CSSE President

PARTNERS IN NAOSH WEEK

NAOSH Week is led by the Canadian Society of Safety Engineering (CSSE). Together with our NAOSH Week partners – the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS), Employment and Social Development Canada (ESDC) Labour Program, Threads of Life, and the American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE), we work hard to promote and advance the goals of NAOSH Week.

Established in 1949, the Canadian Society of Safety Engineering (CSSE) is the leading health, safety and environmental organization for professionals in Canada, with over 4500 members across Canada. The CSSE’s mission is to be the resource for professional development, knowledge and information exchange to our members, our profession and the Canadian public.

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health & Safety (CCOHS) is Canada’s national resource for the advancement of workplace health and safety. CCOHS promotes the total well-being - physical, psychosocial and mental health - of working Canadians by providing information, training, education, management systems and solutions that support health and safety programs and the prevention of injury and illness.

Threads of Life is a national registered charity with a mission to help families heal through a community of support and to promote the elimination of life-altering workplace injuries, illnesses and deaths. In 2011, Threads of Life published Forget Me Not – 21 true stories of Canadian workplace tragedies, as told from the families’ perspective. Each chapter includes health and safety lessons learned, with facts and figures specific to the industry sector.

Founded in 1911, the 100-year-old Des Plaines, IL-based American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE) is the oldest safety society and is committed to protecting people, property and the environment. ASSE’s more than 34,000 occupational safety, health and environmental professional members located worldwide manage, supervise, research and consult on safety, health, transportation and environmental issues in all industries, government, labor and education.

Steps for Life – Walking for Families of Workplace Tragedy is a 5K awareness and fundraising walk where communities come together to honour those affected by workplace tragedy, and work toward preventing future tragedies. Events are held in communities across Canada, usually the first weekend of NAOSH week in May (check the web site, www.stepsforlife.ca for dates and locations). Many committed companies and local businesses participate as volunteers, sponsors and competitors in the Corporate Challenge. Money raised through Steps for Life funds the programs and services of Threads of Life, a national charity which provides a network of hope and healing for those coping with the effects of workplace fatalities, life-altering injuries and occupational disease. SPREADING THE WORD ABOUT NAOOSH WEEK
To best communicate your plans for NAOOSH Week, remember that providing relevant and timely information to the media will greatly enhance your marketing efforts.

TIMING IS EVERYTHING
• When your plans are established, set a schedule for media targets as soon as possible.
• Find out if there are production schedule deadlines (i.e., newspapers).
• For radio and TV stations, find out how they learn about what’s new and interesting in the community.
• For each target, is there a specific individual with whom you should be liaising?
• How soon is a first draft or an “invitation” (to an event) required?
• For articles, etc., what format or length is required?
• Is there space for photographs or graphics? Who will supply these?

MAXIMIZE PUBLIC RELATIONS OPPORTUNITIES
• Are there special or themed issues or inserts in any local publications?
• Can an interview be arranged to profile key NAOSH Week volunteers or newsworthy people?
• Is there anything else happening in the community that looks like “a fit”?
• Is there a NAOSH event to which a reporter and/or a photographer should be invited?

PREPARE A MEDIA KIT
• Organize and compile the information, health and safety general articles of interest, promotional pieces, human interest stories…whatever can provide easy-to-access and easy-to-read material that can be adapted to a newspaper spread or help an interviewer to understand what NAOOSH Week is all about.
• Keep things factual, positive, concise and interesting.
• Have it “ready to go” before you contact the media.

IDENTIFY A CONTACT PERSON
• Identify a key spokesperson that is authorized to speak on behalf of the organization. Provide pertinent information (e.g., title, affiliation) and include their coordinates (telephone/fax/email).
• Make sure the contact understands their responsibility and can be “available” if necessary.

BE PROACTIVE
• Don’t sit back and wait for the media to call. Get your volunteers and/or committee members involved! Make calls, talk to community leaders and keep the momentum going!

WRITING A PRESS RELEASE
...It’s not an intimidating task!
• Keep it short but informative
• Start with the most important information in the first paragraph to capture attention (Hint: editors start cutting at the end)
• Include pertinent details in a clear, concise format
• Add appropriate logos, slogans, etc.
• Suggested content (by paragraphs):
  1 Introduction: Event/purpose/reason
  2 More detail to enhance paragraph 1
  3 Background or explanatory information (in this case, tying it to NAOSH Week and its purpose or highlighting an event/initiative from a previous year)
  4 Other relevant details or background, perhaps profiling an individual or group, quotes, etc.
  5 Specific details such as location, time, who to contact for more information etc.

That’s it: in 5-6 paragraphs you’ve got a press release that’s sure to impress the toughest editor!
Remember: be creative but don’t lose sight of capturing and keeping your audience’s attention.

GETTING YOUR PRESS RELEASE PUBLISHED
⇒ Press releases are for newsworthy items. The media won’t be interested in “stale” or dated material.
⇒ Be timely - running a press release too soon has as little impact as running it “after the fact”.
⇒ Follow the format. A good press release answers the “who, what, where, when, why and how” questions. Put the most important and eye-catching details in the first paragraph, followed by some additional background that continues to develop the story. Finish with a reinforcement of the message, referring back to the key message.
⇒ Focus on the message - use plain language and avoid acronyms or technical jargon.
⇒ Keep it concise, informative and to the point. Suggested length – up to one page, depending on the allocated editorial space and the amount of news/information that needs to be conveyed.

Remember:
Your draft may be edited for space considerations.
NAOUSH WEEK 2018

OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY & HEALTH PROFESSIONAL DAY

WEDNESDAY MAY 9th, 2018

A SPECIAL DAY OF RECOGNITION

The purpose of setting aside a day each year to recognize the ongoing efforts of occupational safety, health and environmental professionals who protect our people, our organizations and, in fact, our way of life is to honour many unsung heroes.

Occupational Safety and Health Professional Day (OSHP) takes pride in recognizing the leadership made by those heroes who strive to ensure that nothing untoward happens in the lives of workers as they go about their daily activities. Since 2007, when the CSSE Board of Directors approved the celebration of “Occupational Safety and Health Professional Day” on the Wednesday of each NAOSH Week, CSSE has honoured this tradition. In 2016, OSHP will be held on May 7th.

Every year, millions of people go to work and return home safely. This is, in a large part, due to the work of occupational safety, health and environmental professionals and NAOSH Week pays special attention to remembering the significant improvements in workplace safety and the lives saved. The ongoing efforts in heightening the importance and impact of injury, illness and loss prevention in Canadian and other workplaces must be celebrated.

Beyond this, Occupational Safety and Health Professional Day is also an excellent vehicle for raising awareness and knowledge about the occupational safety, health and environmental profession. This day – as well as the rest of NAOSH Week – reminds our colleagues and the broader community that our profession is well qualified through education and training, and all safety and health professionals collaboratively work towards preventing personal injury or illness.

Those who work in our profession deserve recognition and Occupational Safety and Health Professional Day is an excellent opportunity to do this.

AS FOR THE OTHER 364 DAYS, PLEASE REMEMBER TO SAY...
"THANK YOU"

RECOGNITION

One of the ways in which the CSSE recognizes the efforts and achievements of professionals who commit their days to protect the quality of life of millions of Canadian workers is by honouring individuals with the Safety Professional of the Year Award. This award provides recognition for a CSSE Member for exceptional service to employer, client or safety community during the professional’s career.

2017 Bruce Lang, accepting his award from Kathy Tull, CSSE President and representative from the award sponsor Cintas.

NAOSH WEEK 2018

NAOSH WEEK AWARDS

The CSSE annually presents NAOSH Week Awards for the purpose of acknowledging CSSE Members, Chapter, Committees and organizations for their efforts in raising public awareness during NAOSH Week and in light of the goals of NAOSH Week.

HISTORY OF NAOSH WEEK

CSSE’s Canadian Occupational Health and Safety Week (COHS) was observed between 1986 – 1996 and had grown out of an initiative that began in the late 1970’s in Newfoundland & Labrador.

During the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) talks between the governments of Mexico, United States, and Canada in 1996, workplace safety within the boundaries of all three nations was discussed by government labor department representatives. Canada’s representative at these talks was familiar with Canada’s COHS Week and suggested to his Mexican and American counterparts that their countries may wish to become involved in a similar endeavor.

Subsequently, CSSE was approached for permission and support to expand the COHS Week format and experience to the United States and Mexico. In September 1996, a proposal was taken to the NAFTA meeting that would see a North American wide program take the place of the Canadian Week.

NAOSH Week was first launched in June 1997, marked by an agreement between Canada, the United States and Mexico.

The CSSE was officially recognized by Labour Canada as the safety organization responsible for NAOSH Week. It was agreed that Labour Canada would continue to play the lead political role for North America for three years to allow the partnership concept an opportunity to develop. NAOSH Week was implemented under this plan between 1997 and 2000.

Since 2000, the responsibility and management of NAOSH Week has continued through an effective partnership with CSSE, the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) and Employment and Social Development Canada’s Labour Program (formerly Labour Canada). CSSE has been successful in bringing the American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE) into the partnership and brought Threads of Life into the partnership in 2010. Together many safety partners, now throughout North America, work hard to promote and encourage the goals of NAOSH Week.

NAOSH WEEK AWARDS ARE PRESENTED IN FOUR CATEGORIES AND ARE SUPPORTED BY THE NAOSH WEEK MOTIVATIONAL CHAMPIONS.

Most Innovative
For an organization that likes to be creative. This award recognizes the organizations that use out of the box thinking to hold great health and safety events throughout NAOSH Week.

Best Overall
For an organization that goes above and beyond! This award recognizes the organizations that support and pursue the goals of NAOSH Week within their organization and the community.

Best Representation of Theme
For an organization that puts “Making Safety a Habit” into everything they’re doing. This award recognizes the organizations that take to heart the NAOSH Week theme and help others do the same.

Best New Entry
For an organization stepping up their game. This award recognizes the organizations that are embracing NAOSH in a big way, maybe not for the very first time but with a new sense of purpose and passion.
