Minneapolis police have identified the three officers involved in a shooting Tuesday that left a 47-year-old woman with non-life threatening injuries.

Around 1 a.m., Officer Kyle Joseph, Officer Ryan McCann and Officer Paul O'Hanlon responded to a 911 call of a woman with a knife inside an apartment at 305 W. Franklin Ave. in Minneapolis, according to Minneapolis police.

Officers told her to drop the knife, but she refused, police said. They tried to subdue her with a Taser, but were unsuccessful. The woman then came at them with the knife. Fearing for their safety, officers shot her, police said.

The woman was taken to Hennepin County Medical Center with injuries to her lower torso. Her name has not been released.

The officers are on paid administrative leave, which is standard procedure. Joseph started with the department in 2001 as a community service officer. McCann and O'Hanlon both joined the department as recruit officers in 2002.
