RONNIE

for NC TREASURER

Ronnie Chatterji is running to be the next Treasurer of North Carolina. The Treasurer is a statewide elected official who manages the money for North Carolina, serving as the sole trustee for the $95 billion pension fund, managing the $3 billion state employee health care plan and overseeing all state and local bonds.

Ronnie is uniquely qualified to do this job. Ronnie has a Ph.D. in business economics and is a tenured professor at Duke University's Fuqua School of Business. He previously served as a Senior Economist in President Obama's Council of Economic of Advisers and has been an economic adviser to multiple Presidential campaigns. His recent book, academic articles, and popular press writings have made him a leading thinker on the relationship between business and society. Ronnie has worked in financial services and with leading global companies on business strategy and innovation.

Ronnie sees untapped potential in the Treasurer's office to make a difference. The Treasurer's influence extends from all 100 counties in North Carolina to global financial markets and Fortune 500 boardrooms. As a large institutional investor, the Treasurer can ensure that North Carolina's money is invested responsibly and supporting businesses aligned with our values. The Treasurer can engage leading companies on issues like climate change and gender equality and make sure that North Carolina is getting a good return on investment. The Treasurer is the largest purchaser of healthcare in the state and can become a national leader in implementing affordable, high-quality care for all. The Treasurer also plays a key role in helping finance important infrastructure projects in both rural and urban areas across the state.

Ronnie is garnering support from Democrats across the state. With a personal and professional profile uniquely suited for this position, Ronnie will be well-positioned to win a competitive general election in a crucial swing state that will see massive investment for the Presidential, Gubernatorial, and U.S. Senate races.

Ronnie is the son of two immigrants and state-employed educators and has two older sisters. He received his Ph.D. from the Haas School of Business at the University of California at Berkeley and his B.A. in Economics from Cornell University. He and his wife Neely are longtime residents of Durham, North Carolina and are raising three kids, 6, 4 and 2 years old.
