About the Downtown Women's Center

Founded in 1978 and now reaching more than 3,000 women per year, the Downtown Women's Center (DWC) is the only organization in Los Angeles exclusively dedicated to addressing the immediate and long-term needs of women overcoming homelessness on Downtown's Skid Row.

Our Approach

DWC is a nationally recognized model because our wrap-around services fulfill immediate and critical needs, and advance more intensive and long-term solutions to ending homelessness for women. By providing a wide array of resources all in one place, we remove barriers to accessing support. Our services — from food and showers to housing and housing services, medical and mental health care, education, job-readiness training and more — make a life-changing difference. And because women consistently say they feel safe and comfortable at DWC, they are more likely to access the care they need to regain their personal stability.

Dinner With a Cause

Our Dinner brings together more than 550 community leaders from the Los Angeles area and beyond to celebrate and support our work. Guests enjoy signature cocktails, live music, exciting silent and live auctions, and a gourmet sit-down meal.

Event Chairs: Elyse Klein & Rachel Capoccia

The Cause

Dinner With a Cause has raised millions of dollars in support of DWC's vital services. Proceeds help us to pursue our mission: to provide permanent supportive housing and a safe and healthy community fostering, dignity, respect, and personal stability, and to advocate ending homelessness for women.

Your support through our event will create real, sustainable change for the thousands of women we serve this year. We invite you to join us!

Honoree: U.S. Senator Dianne Feinstein

As California's senior senator, Dianne Feinstein has built a reputation as an independent voice, working with both Democrats and Republicans to find commonsense solutions to the problems facing California and the nation.

Since her election to the Senate in 1992, Senator Feinstein has worked in a bipartisan way to build a significant record of legislative accomplishments, helping strengthen the nation's security at home and abroad, combat crime and violence, battle cancer and protect natural resources in California and across the country.

Senator Feinstein's career has been one of firsts. She was the first woman president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, the first woman mayor of San Francisco, the first woman elected senator of California, and the first woman member of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Downtown Women's Center (DWC) is delighted to honor Senator Dianne Feinstein at our 20th annual Dinner with a Cause. The senator has been a longtime champion for women and families. In particular, she is a strong advocate for female veterans and has worked closely with DWC to move veteran women from homelessness to permanent housing. Through her legislative work, Senator Feinstein has demonstrated her commitment to her most vulnerable constituents. Last year, for example, she introduced The Homeless Children and Youth Act, which includes a provision that will increase publicly available data on the demographics, health, and other experiences of women experiencing homelessness. In turn, this will deepen national understanding of the unique service needs of women experiencing homelessness and how to serve them best.

Senator Feinstein's passion for women's rights, commitment to equality, and service to her constituents strongly exemplify the Downtown Women's Center's mission and values. She is a powerful example of women's leadership for those of us who work for and with women.

Honoree: Raul Anaya, Bank of America

Raul A. Anaya is president of Bank of America for the Greater Los Angeles region. In this capacity, he serves as the enterprise leader for Los Angeles, leading integration of Bank of America's business lines to ensure delivery of the full breadth and depth of the bank's global financial services to more individuals and businesses locally. Anaya also oversees the bank's corporate and social responsibility activities, which include philanthropic giving, community development lending and investing, environmental initiatives, diversity efforts, arts and culture projects, and employee volunteerism for the bank's 13,000 associates who work in the Greater Los Angeles region.

Always active in the business community, Anaya has served on multiple business and nonprofit organizations' boards throughout his career with the bank. In Los Angeles, he is on the boards of the California Science Center Foundation (chairman of the board), the Los Angeles Economic Development Corporation (past chairman), and AltaMed Foundation. Anaya is also a member of the Los Angeles chapter of Young Presidents Organization (YPO) and the Angeleno chapter of YPO Gold.

DWC is pleased to honor Raul Anaya, who emphasizes and exemplifies the importance of male business leaders advocating for women's empowerment, and who has spearheaded philanthropic investment in workforce development programs in our region. Under Anaya's leadership, Bank of America has continuously increased their support for DWC, including a recent generous grant to help fund permanent supportive housing on-site and throughout LA County.
