INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Members of Dying With Dignity Canada

We have audited the statement of financial position of Dying With Dignity Canada as at December 31, 2014 and the statement of operations, statement of changes in net assets and statement of cash flows for the year then ended and a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Management's responsibility for the financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Dying With Dignity Canada as at December 31, 2014, and its financial performance, changes in net assets and cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2014

1. Organization and operations

Dying With Dignity Canada was incorporated without share capital as a not-for-profit organization in 1980. Its mandate is to provide:

- (a) education about end of life options and the importance of advance care planning;
- (b) support for individuals at the end of their lives, including support at the bedside of those who wish to determine the nature and timing of their death, and
- (c) information about the choice of dying movement, and the reasons why appropriately regulated physician assisted dying should be legalized in Canada.

Under the Income Tax Act, as a not-for-profit organization, Dying With Dignity Canada is exempt from income taxes (see Note 10).

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations.

(a) Revenue recognition

Unrestricted donations and membership fees are recognized as revenues when received. Donations received for future periods or specific projects are deferred and recognized as revenue in the period when the related expenses are incurred.

(b) Financial instruments

The organization's financial instruments consist of cash, short term investments and deposits, amounts receivable and accounts payable. Cash, amounts receivable and accounts payable are initially measured at fair value, when the organization becomes a party to the contractual provisions, and subsequently measured at amortized cost which approximates fair value due to their short term nature.

The organization's investments, which consist of money market funds, common shares, TSX index funds and other investments are initially and subsequently measured at fair value. Changes in fair value are recognized in net income in the period incurred. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition of these investments are recognized in net income in the period incurred.

(c) Capital assets

Capital assets, which consist of computer equipment, are amortized on a straight line basis over 5 years.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

(d) Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the year. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(e) Donated goods and services

Donated goods and services are recorded when a fair value can be reasonably estimated and they would otherwise be purchased if not donated.

A substantial number of volunteers have made significant contributions of their time to the organization's programs and supporting services. The value of this contributed time is not reflected in these financial statements.

3. Financial instruments

It is the opinion of management that the organization is not exposed to significant interest rate, liquidity or credit risk. The organization is somewhat exposed to market risk, which is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. The organization, when it holds investments of common shares, is exposed to market risk as such investments are subject to price changes in the open market. The organization does not use derivative financial instruments to alter the effects of this risk.

4. Cash

6. Other investments

9. Lease commitments

The minimum annual rent under lease agreements for office premises that expire August 2016 is as follows:

2015	$ 50,300

10. Subsequent event

Dying With Dignity Canada was audited by Canada Revenue Agency ("CRA") during 2014. As a result of the audit, CRA concluded that Dying With Dignity Canada was registered as a charity in error in 1982 and re-registered in error in 2011. As a consequence, CRA was of the opinion that Dying With Dignity Canada's charitable status should be annulled. Dying With Dignity Canada's Board of Directors accepted the annulment which was confirmed by CRA effective March 9, 2015. When a charity's registration is annulled it is deemed to have never been registered. An organization that is annulled retains its assets but is no longer able to issue charitable receipts for tax purposes.

Dying With Dignity Canada continues to operate as a not-for-profit organization under the Income Tax Act.
