

Dying With Dignity Canada

It's your life. It's your choice.

NUNAVUT

Advance Directive: Instructions

Important note: In Nunavut, there is no legislation for Advance Directives or for a person who is still capable of making their own decisions to appoint a Substitute Decision-Maker for Health (termed a Guardian in Nunavut). As such, this form is not a legal document. It is still worthwhile, however, for Canadians in Nunavut to document and discuss their wishes for future care with loved ones and health care providers.

Read the Advance Directive Form all the way through and do not start to fill in the form until you have read the directions on how to do so. Make sure you completely understand all the information and are satisfied that your proposed Guardian understands that these are your wishes, and is willing to apply to the Nunavut Court of Justice for an order appointing them as your Guardian, if you become incapable of making your own decisions. You will then be ready to complete your Directive Form and express your preference of Guardian.

- 1. Read each line carefully and strike out any that do not apply to you or that you do not agree with. There are extra spaces for you to fill in any circumstances not covered – e.g. you may have a hereditary condition you want to address.
- 2. Please pay special attention to Section 4 in the Advance Directive Form. If you DO NOT WISH to have your life prolonged under the conditions you have set out in Sections 1, 2 and 3 then you must strike out Section 4 completely. If you DO WISH to have your life prolonged under any circumstances, and are requesting all treatment applicable to your medical condition, then you must strike out Sections 1, 2 and 3 completely and leave only the directions you are giving under Section 4.
- 3. Make copies of the Advance Directive Form before you sign and date, so that each copy has the original signatures.

4. Your proposed Guardian(s) must be at least 18 years of age.

5. You do not need a witness to complete your Advance Directive, but it is important that your loved ones and health care providers know that you have completed an Advance Directive. Talk to your health care provider and ask that a copy of the Advance Directive be entered in your medical records. Give a copy to whoever will be making decisions on your behalf if you cannot do so for yourself and let other important people in your life know that you have an Advance Directive. Keep a copy where it can be easily found in an emergency situation. Leave a note in a prominent place – perhaps with a fridge magnet – saying where to find your Advance Directive and who to call in an emergency. Do not store your Advance Directive in a safety deposit box.

CHANGING YOUR MIND:

You can always change your mind. We advise that you review your Advance Directive at least every three years. If there are no changes to be made, sign it again with the new date. There is space at the bottom of the form for you to do this. Keeping your Advance Directive up-to-date helps ensure that your most current wishes will be reflected if you lose capacity to make health decisions.

If your medical condition has changed, or if you have reconsidered some of the answers you wrote down, ask us to send you a new form and start over. Begin by revoking your previous Advance Directive and continue on as before. Be sure to tell everyone involved in your care that you have revised your Advance Directive.

ADVANCE DIRECTIVE: Form

Please note: If you feel you have special circumstances that the Dying with Dignity Canada forms do not address, we suggest that you consult with a lawyer.

7. I understand that the current laws of Canada do not allow me to request medical assistance in dying ("MAID") in advance, or for my SDM to consent to MAID on my behalf. However, if the law changes to allow my SDM and health care providers to act on my directions below, I wish for them to do so. Here are my directions regarding MAID: _____
