Dear Friends of Earth Quaker Action Team,

What a year it has been! After 5 years of our campaign and pressure, on March 2, 2015 PNC Bank announced a new policy that effectively stops PNC from financing companies that practice mountaintop removal coal mining. Since then, other banks have followed suit, and even The New York Times and American Banker Magazine have mentioned our campaign’s role in helping to turn the tide against this devastating practice. Your generous support in 2014 helped make this win possible. Here’s how.

2014 was a year of huge expansion for EQAT. We expanded our geographical reach to include 13 states. We increased our capacity to organize large actions. Most importantly, we grew our courage. In 2014 many people participated in nonviolent direct action for the first time, almost everyone tried on a new role at an action, and several were arrested for civil disobedience.

In 2014, generous donations from supporters like you made the following possible:

- An event called Honoring our Elders in which we recognized and reflected upon the commitment of five elder activists in our campaign.

- Incredible organizational nimbleness as we showed up powerfully in Tampa, Florida for PNC’s annual shareholder meeting. PNC’s move to Florida presented an opportunity to collaborate with young Friends and 22 Floridians from 7 monthly meetings. PNC executives rushed through their agenda in 15 minutes – even faster than the previous year.

- A 200-person action in Pittsburgh in connection with the annual Friends General Conference Gathering. People from around the United States came on 5 busloads from the conference to PNC’s corporate headquarters for a worshipful action. Participants ranged from age 5 to 85, many of whom were taking their first nonviolent direct action.

- 5 trainings during October and November in Indiana, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Florida, preparing people to lead their own local action in December.

EQAT Loves Mountains

• Our largest day of action yet: on December 6 over 300 people in 13 states took part in over 30 actions across PNC’s footprint as part of Flood PNC.

After a year of organizing actions across PNC’s geographical footprint, in February 2015 we focused our attention on PNC’s Philadelphia headquarters. We led a training and action - EQAT Loves Mountains - on a bitterly cold day that was especially challenging for our participants from Florida.

The month after PNC’s announced policy change, five EQAT members attended the bank’s 2015 shareholder meeting in Pittsburgh. They made it clear that EQAT is willing to jump back into action if PNC does not follow through on their new policy. Those EQATers also called on PNC to make reparations to the people of Appalachia.

Even in the midst of all this, there were two times in 2014 that EQAT felt led and able to respond to calls from the wider climate change and social justice movements:

• At the request of the national movement against the Keystone XL Pipeline, we coordinated a prompt action in Philadelphia calling attention to conflicts of interest regarding this pipeline. EQAT provided 6 trainings and led an action with 200 people in which 29 were arrested for civil disobedience. Many more were willing to risk arrest.

• In August, our staff member Matthew Armstead received a request to come to Ferguson, MO for three weeks to support the racial justice movement that had erupted in the wake of the killing of Michael Brown by police. Matthew, who is African American, felt called to go. Realizing that the world we envision is more than just the old world with solar panels on it, EQAT supported Matthew with love and prayer while continuing to pay his salary during his three weeks away.

As we celebrate our win and all of the work and growth that made it possible, your backing is particularly appreciated. Thank you so much for your continued support of Earth Quaker Action Team. Your contribution supports a courageous group to continue to develop powerful strategies for environmental justice and spiritual engagement. We are now in a process to develop our next campaign so please expect to hear exciting news soon about how we will use nonviolent direct action to create a just and sustainable economy.

With joy and gratitude,

Eileen

I support EQAT not only because of the specific work it does but because (1) it operates with a carefully-thought-out, long-term strategy and (2) it is helping Friends and others to learn about and engage in effective nonviolent direct action.

I participated in the July 3 PNC action in Pittsburgh, which definitely helped me stretch beyond my comfort zone in a good way. I thank EQAT for offering the combination of inspiration and safety that made this possible!

GIVING STORIES

Ben Safran

I donate to Earth Quaker Action Team because EQAT and the people who support us are a truly special group. We are not just strategic but loving; not just thoughtful but courageous; and we are old and young and in-between. I believe in EQAT’s mission at the intersection of climate and economic justice, and it is now more clear than ever that our work has a meaningful impact on these struggles that threaten our existence. We are a small, nimble organization that creates big change and I know that even a small donation will be put to good use. I have grown through my involvement in EQAT and I am grateful for the support that will allow EQAT to continue to grow, shaping more people, and the world.
