Dear Premier Stephen McNeil:

Owls Head is an ecologically significant area along the Eastern Shore that is deserving of legal protection. It contains a number of rare ecosystem types, as well as important habitat for migratory birds and species-at-risk. It is a key headland within the “100 wild islands” ecosystem.

Very little of Nova Scotia’s coastline is publicly-owned and protected. It is important that places like Owls Head remain in public ownership, for the benefit and enjoyment of all Nova Scotians.

We are opposed to the delisting of Owls Head Provincial Park Reserve from the Nova Scotia Parks and Protected Areas Plan and we are concerned about the secretive manner in which this delisting occurred.

We, the undersigned, respectfully call on the Nova Scotia government to:

- 1) Stop the sale of publicly-owned lands at Owls Head
- 2) Protect Owls Head as a legally-designated protected area
- 3) Fully implement the Nova Scotia Parks and Protected Areas Plan

Sincerely,
