Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives ("ATF")
Las Vegas Field Office
8965 S. Eastern Avenue, Suite 200
Las Vegas, NV 89123

To Whom it May Concern:

Firearms Policy Foundation ("FPF") is, under protest, transferring to ATF possession of one (1) Slide Fire® SSAR-15® SBS Bump Fire Stock (black, right-handed model in brand-new condition; contained in plastic packaging) bump-stock-type device(s) because we understand ATF contends that FPF's continued possession would or could result in arrest and prosecution. According to written representations by the Department of Justice, "ATF will also retain the [bump stock], as it has been for plaintiffs in other litigation." And we have the legal option to surrender, under protest, "bump-stock-type devices at the nearest ATF office." (See also <https://www.atf.gov/rules-and-regulations/bump-stocks> and 83 Fed.Reg. 66530.) The ATF's Las Vegas Field Office is the "nearest ATF office" to the subject device and my office.

We dispute the lawfulness of ATF's Final Rule and its claimed authority to regulate bump-stock-type devices for all of, but not limited to, the reasons specified in Guedes, et al., v. BATFE, et al., 1:18-cv-02988, Firearms Policy Coalition v. William Barr, et al., 1:18-cv-03083, and Codrea, et al. v. BATFE, et al., 1:18-cv-03086, including the arguments made in the consolidated appeal before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit (nos. 19-5042, 19-5043, and 19-5044). FPF is only surrendering the bump-stock-type device to prevent arrest and prosecution. FPF does not consent to the damage, destruction, or loss of its property. Nor does FPF consent to any forfeiture of property. We expect that ATF will not cause any loss, damage, or any other harm to our property. FPF asserts and reserves all its rights pursuant to the U.S. Constitution and all applicable federal laws.

In the event ATF's Final Rule is enjoined or otherwise deemed or declared to be unlawful and/or unconstitutional, I expect ATF to immediately contact me to arrange the return of FPF's property at no cost to FPF, at:
