

Queensland Election Community Calling Fact Sheet

About the electorate of Everton

Mansfield is held by LNP MP Tim Mander, and the electorate is on the Northern fringe of Brisbane. The seat straddles the border between the City of Brisbane and Moreton Bay Regional Council covering the suburbs of Oxford Park, Everton Hills, Albany Hill and parts of Mitchelton, Bunya, Brendale and Arana

Hills. Mander holds the seat on a 2% margin, although our polling shows the seat at a dead heat between the ALP and the LNP.

Mander has led the LNP campaign against the Safe Schools program, and has made controversial remarks about a woman dominated parole board 'lacking diversity.' Pauline Hanson has stated that Mander would make a much better leader of the LNP than Nicholls, and One Nation is not running a candidate in Everton.

Candidates:

- Tim Mander (Liberal National)
- Bridget Clinch (Greens)
- David Greene (Labor)

About the electorate of Gaven

Mount Ommaney is held by LNP MP Sid Cramp, and covers inland parts of the Gold Coast, including Pacific Pines, Gaven, Nerang, Highland Park and parts of Carrara. Mount Ommaney was held on 0.2% margin after the 2015 election but since the boundary redistribution is now by 1% to the ALP.

Candidates:

- Sid Cramp (Liberal National)
- Meaghan Scanlon (Labor)
- Sally Spain (Greens)

Adani's billion-dollar bailout

Key Points	Details
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Adani has applied for a billion-dollar loan from the federal government to build their rail line from their coal mine to Abbot Point.• If re-elected, QLD Labor has vowed to veto the loan to Adani.• If a QLD Labor Government blocks the billion-dollar loan, Adani's plans to build the world's newest large coal project will be in trouble.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Adani has applied for a billion dollar loan from the Northern Australian Infrastructure Fund (NAIF), which has $5 billion of public money to invest in Northern Australia.• Right now, it's looking like NAIF plans to spend these taxpayer funds on coal projects (like Adani's mine), instead of funding local projects that could make a real, lasting difference to local communities.• The legal structure of the NAIF fund gives the Queensland government has the power to veto the NAIF loan.

- Adani is relying on the loan to attract other backers -- so if they fail to secure the $1 billion, it will make it more difficult for them to go ahead with the mega-mine.

Party and candidate positions:

- Premier Palaszczuk and the ALP will block the billion-dollar loan to Adani. If re-elected, Palaszczuk said she'll send a letter to the Prime Minister on her first day in office to veto the handout.
- The Greens have consistently rejected the Adani coal mine, including funding and environmental approvals.
- Tim Nicholls and the LNP want to give taxpayer funds to Adani. The Liberal and National parties have championed the billion-dollar bailout from day one.
- One Nation support the Adani mine, but instead of the NAIF loan being given to Adani, they want the money to come straight from the government -- so taxpayers would still be footing the bill for the rail line to Adani's coal mine.

Renewables and Power Prices

Key Points	Details
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The LNP wants to scrap Queensland's renewable energy target, and instead build a new coal-burning power plant. • QLD Labor has a plan to source half of Queensland's power from renewable energy by 2030 and have a suite of policies to boost rooftop solar. • New coal fired power is the most expensive source of electricity, while rooftop solar slashes power prices. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • According to industry experts, the LNP's new coal fired power station would mean a doubling of power prices. • New coal fired power is the most expensive source of electricity, while households with solar enjoy significantly lower power prices • Queensland Labor has a suite of policies to encourage uptake of rooftop solar, including zero interest loans. • Unlike most of the parties in this election, LNP has no plan for helping more households get solar. • QLD Labor also has a plan to build at least 1400MW of new solar, wind and battery storage by 2025.

Deals with One Nation

Key Points	Details
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pauline Hanson's One Nation and the LNP have made a secretive preference deal. • The LNP is preferencing One Nation in 2 out of every 3 seats where they're running. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The deal behind the LNP/ON preference deal is not public. Serious questions surround what LNP offered One Nation in return - positions in government? Policy compromises? Campaign resources? • In contrast, QLD Labor and the Greens have both ruled out forming government with One Nation and have pledged to place them last on their how-to-vote cards.
