Energy Justice!

1. The responsibilities and any costs of the transition are equitably shared across society
2. Those most responsible pay the most - polluters pay
3. A fair distribution of the benefits
4. The transition is used to rectify broader injustice, poverty and inequality not further entrench it

The Choice

“75% of Australia’s existing coal fired power stations have passed its useful life... 20% are more than 40 years old”

Tim Nelson, AGL

2. Renewables are the cheapest

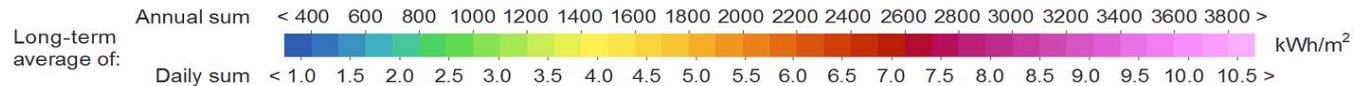

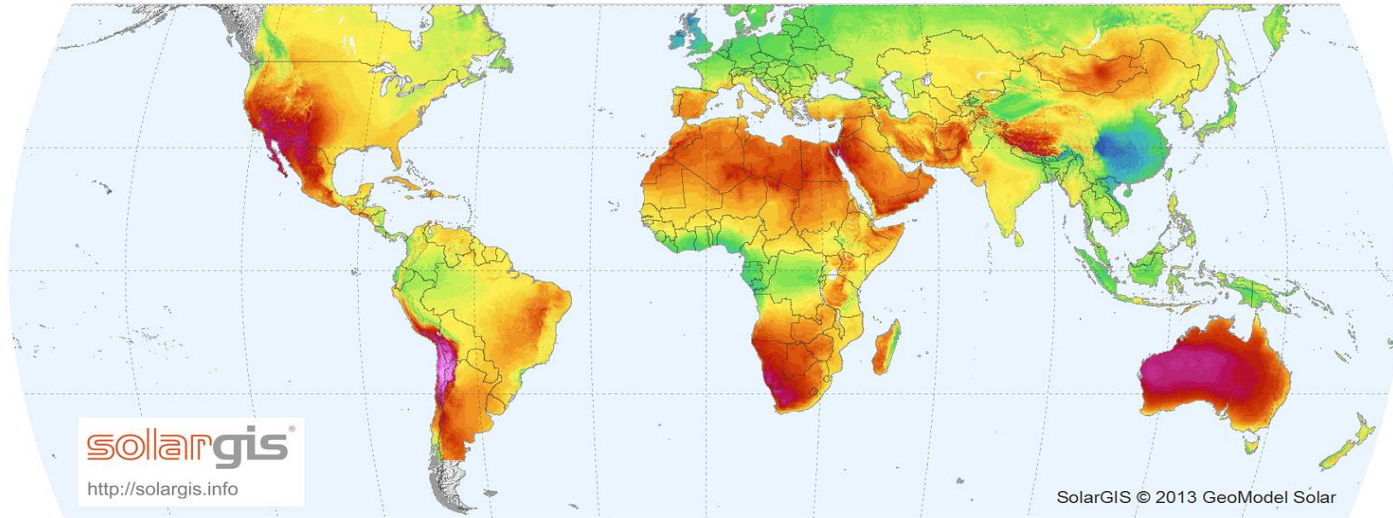

3. Renewable resource advantage
