

Urban Survival Skills & Critical Decision Making

MEET THE INSTRUCTORS ...

Richard Alan Miller, PhD is a physicist, herbalist, horticulturalist, bestselling author of 7 books, and former special skills trainer for the US Navy Seals.

He began his military work as an original black ops team-member in the "X-Files" world of Navy Intel (Seal Corp. and then MRU) in the late 60s, and now has amazing experiences and conclusions to share.

Miller is the author of numerous foundational papers, including A Holographic Concept of Reality and Embryonic Holography. His primary agricultural emphasis is toward new crops development in both the foraging and farming of herbs and spices. In addition to being a proponent for diverse backyard gardens, Miller is also highly skilled at foraging for edible wild foods and medicinal herbs.

Matthew Stein is a design engineer, green builder, and author of two bestselling books:

When Disaster Strikes: A Comprehensive Guide to Emergency Planning and Crisis Survival, and

When Technology Fails: A Manual for Self-Reliance, Sustainability, and Surviving the Long Emergency.

Stein is a graduate of the MIT where he majored in Mechanical Engineering, and has appeared on numerous radio and television programs.

He is an active mountain climber, serves as a guide and instructor for blind skiers, and is a guest columnist for the Huffington Post.
