Berkeley Community Impact Investing Roundtable

September 6, 2019, Berkeley, California

The Berkeley Community Impact Roundtable will be an opportunity for higher education institutions, as anchor institutions in their communities, to explore a variety of community investment strategies to support a more prosperous and thriving local neighborhood through endowment investing.

The program will be designed primarily for endowments that are interested in pursuing sustainable investment strategies on some level and looking to learn about community investment opportunities and how best to implement or advance such strategies.

Senior administrators, trustees, and endowment/foundation staff from colleges and universities, community foundations, and other investor groups, as well as sustainable investment experts are encouraged to attend and participate in the conversation.

Sponsors will provide critical support to make this important dialogue possible. There are four levels of sponsorship available:
