We are Jewish Americans.

We believe in a future in this country where everyone is free and safe — no matter what we look like or where we come from.

We are Jewish Americans — as diverse as this country itself.

We are one people,
but we have many experiences and identities.

For some of us, the recent increase in antisemitic violence has made us more aware of our vulnerability.

For some of us, this is just the latest chapter in a long struggle against racism and xenophobia.

Resistance and survival are our birthright.

Our people have survived genocide and fascism,
deportation, and slavery.

Our ancestors fought for liberation and democracy.

We are rooted in a legacy of pursuing justice.

And we are rising up again because
the stakes could not be higher.

A new America is possible, and we will build it together, in solidarity with everyone under attack.

We are ready. We rise as one.
