

USE LAROCHE'S SCIENTIFIC AUTHORITY TO CUT THROUGH THE "SEA OF TURMOIL AND CONFUSION"

February 13, 2017—"The global strategic picture is very dynamic, fluid, promising and dangerous, all at once," Helga Zepp-LaRouche stated in a Sunday discussion with LaRouche movement organizers across the United States. She pointed to a number of positive developments coming from the Trump administration -- promising and constructive talks with China's Xi Jinping; a new opening with Russia; potential economic cooperation with Japan on high-tech infrastructure; a statement of intent to wage a serious war on drugs-- which means that "the potential exists to establish a level of Reason in international politics."

However, it is also clear that this is very far from being settled: it is a potential," Zepp-LaRouche emphasized. "A lot of things could go wrong, and a lot depends on the intervention of the LaRouche movement, because, in all modesty, I think that the LaRouche organization is the only one which has a scientific, coherent view of what the future of mankind must be. And other forces, as good as they may be, tend to have ideological flaws in this respect or that."

Fortunately, Lyndon LaRouche's ideas from 50 years of intense scientific and political activity, are becoming the dominant attitude of the world today. They are dominating the global dynamic, Zepp-LaRouche stated, from China's Confucian renaissance to Russia's moving towards a moral society. They have laid the basis for putting an end to geopolitics and war, for good, and rebuilding the global economy around the principles laid out in LaRouche's Four Laws.

Mrs. Zepp-LaRouche went on to denounce the Color Revolution campaign against the new Trump administration, because of the positive potential it represents. She specifically called out former President Barack Obama, who is at the center of the operation: "This is really incredible," Zepp-LaRouche stated. "This has never happened with a President after leaving office. It seems that Obama is now personally organizing the Color Revolution!"

In this charged environment, which Zepp-LaRouche described as a "sea of turmoil and confusion," it is crucial to organize the population by taking the high ground, not by nitpicking or getting into the media-defined "hot issue" of the day, but by proposing what is needed from a policy standpoint. The two central matters facing Mankind today, she emphasized, are the danger of a thermonuclear world war, induced by British geopolitics, and the certainty of a total collapse of the trans-Atlantic financial system, if Glass-Steagall and related measures are not adopted.

"The combination of the U.S., China, Russia, Japan, India and other major nations, is what is needed to get to a global New Paradigm.... What is important is to overcome geopolitics, because that will lead to World War III, and then there would be no more Mankind to even talk about.

"The second important thing is that the financial system is going to blow, big time. Therefore Glass-Steagall and Lyndon LaRouche's Four Laws are what is absolutely essential. The non-implementation of Glass-Steagall to date, is the Achilles' Heel of the Trump administration."

Everything positive that Trump has done so far will go up in smoke, Zepp-LaRouche concluded, unless Glass-Steagall is implemented. And that dictates, in terms of immediate action, a continuing campaign calling on Trump to use his Feb. 28 State of the Union address to announce a return to the original 1933 Glass-Steagall law of Franklin Roosevelt.
