Seizing the moment

by Tim Farron MP

Not even the canniest political commentator could have predicted the events of the last four months. Just take a moment to reflect.

We have had what most of us would consider a disastrous result in the referendum, but one which has led to over 17,000 passionate and energetic new members joining our party. We have seen the defenestration of the Brexiteers, though many would say it’s an abdication of responsibility on the part of those that created the mess that we are in. We have seen the Labour Party entering into even deeper civil war – and who knows where they will be by the time we gather in Brighton.

And we have seen Theresa May chosen by the Conservative Party to be our new Prime Minister. It is ironic that she has ruled out an election, having pilloried Gordon Brown in 2007 for his coronation without having the courage to face the electorate.

Most of all, though, the result of the referendum shows just how vital we are. There is no party better placed to understand the complexities of the challenges that Brexit presents, nor more determined to prove that Britain’s future is best served at the heart of Europe. We are energised, united and have a clarity of understanding and purpose like no other party in Britain.

We have to seize this opportunity with both hands and show we are the only party capable of providing genuinely alternative ideas to those of this Conservative government.

In making clear where we stand on the big question of our future relationship with the European Union, it is critical, however, that we address the country as a whole. Neither those that voted to remain, nor those that voted to leave, are homogenous groups that all think the same or vote for the same parties. We must address the concerns of real people in real communities.

The truth is that the debate about Brexit is a debate about the future of our country. It is about the availability and security of jobs, our schools, our hospitals, law and order, environmental standards and much, much more. It is most importantly about bread and butter issues that matter in homes up and down the country, not the pontifications of politicians in the Westminster bubble. With our own unique brand of community politics we are better placed than any other party to show we understand that and address their fears with proposals that are sensible, credible and liberal.

Our support for Britain at the heart of Europe and our determination to tackle the inequality that blights the life chances of so many people must be seen as two sides of the same coin.

We need to do all we can to boost the opportunity for people to take charge of their own lives, through education, job opportunities and good physical and mental healthcare, whilst challenging the barriers that hold them back.

I have a vision for a Britain that is open, tolerant and united. Together we can deliver it.

Tim Farron is MP for Westmorland and Lonsdale and Leader of the Liberal Democrats

The Builders Merchants’ Federation is the UK trade association for businesses in the building materials’ supply chain. Since 1908, we have represented builders, plumbers and timber merchants, as well as manufacturers who make and deliver building materials, home improvement products and renewable energy systems.

Our 520 members have combined annual sales approaching £18 billion and employ over 95,000 people. Our 300+ merchant members trade from more than 4,000 branches.

The role, value and importance of our members (and the Federation itself) cannot be understated. Housing is not built - nor are existing buildings repaired, converted or transformed - without the everyday materials and value-added products that BMF members make, stock and deliver.

Welcome to Brighton & Hove

On behalf of Brighton & Hove we extend a genuine and very warm welcome to all delegates attending the Liberal Democrats Autumn Conference in our city.

Whether it will be your first visit, or one of many, we very much hope that while you get down to business, you will all find time to enjoy the atmosphere and the wonderful array of cultural and culinary delights we have to offer in Brighton & Hove.

We also hope you can take in some of the many attractions the city has to offer – the Royal Pavilion, our landmark Jubilee Library, our two Museum & Art Galleries, the Theatre Royal, the Dome Complex, Brighton Pier and our seafront, which is now home to many new bars, restaurants, nightclubs and the amazing newly launched British Airways i360.

If you have not done so already, please remember to come and see us at Stand 10 in the Exhibition Area to pick up one of our wonderful and free Delegate Deals Passes. This booklet will provide you with exclusive and money saving discounts in many of the bars, shops, restaurants and attractions across the city. We also hold stocks of City Maps and have a wealth of advice, guidance and information on what to see and do whilst you spend time in our great city.

We look forward to seeing you soon.

Welcome to our new-look Conference Training Programme!

Conference is always a great opportunity to brush up on existing skills and techniques - and to take time to learn new ones.

This year we have made it even easier to find the right training courses for you, whether you want to learn a specific set of skills or undertake courses focused on a particular party role.

There are well over 100 training and skills-development courses available to you at conference. Over the next few pages you’ll be able to find the right courses for you. I’m hugely grateful to all our training providers for making this happen and would like to offer them my sincere thanks.

If you would like any help or guidance on how to find the best conference courses to match your needs, please email training@libdems.org.uk or come and chat with us in the Campaign Zone.

Your personal guide to Conference Training 2016

What do you want to learn?

We want you to get the most from your conference training experience. That’s why we’ve introduced course categories, to make it even easier to find the courses that suit the roles you have already within the party, or roles you might want to take on in the future.

Each training course now is tagged with relevant broad categories of roles the course is aimed at.

Training course categories:

- diversity
  Learn how to engage diverse people and communities, or, as a person from an under-represented group, find out how to build a successful political career.

- candidate
  Are you an aspiring or current candidate? If so, these courses are ideal for you. Come along and share ideas and best practice and learn new skills along the way.

- officer
  If you’re a Local Party or Regional Party officer, these skills are aimed at helping you develop in your role. Share your experiences and learn from others.

- new member
  If you’re new to the Liberal Democrats, these are the courses for you! These courses will help you find your feet in the party and will help you get more involved.

- activist
  Whether you’re a long-standing activist or perhaps thinking of standing for council for the first time, these courses will help you develop existing skills and learn new ones.

- councillor
  For councillors new and long-standing, these courses will help you develop in your role. Learn new skills and find out what’s working in other parts of the country.

- compliance
  From being an election agent to a Local Party treasurer, these courses will keep you up to date on legal and compliance issues to excel in your role.

- policy
  Find out more about Lib Dem policy-making and how to get involved in the policy-making process. Also for courses that turn policy into campaigning.

All training events take place in the Hilton Brighton Metropole – see page 1 for address and page 13 for the hotel plan.
An innovative approach to energy

British Gas is transforming to meet our customers’ changing needs, helping them understand their energy use, giving them the tools to control their bills, and making it even easier to talk to us, when they want and how they want. All these things are changing the relationship people have with their energy supplier.

Mark Hodges, Managing Director, Energy Supply and Services, Centrica

Smart meters are just one of the ways British Gas is helping customers understand and control their energy use and we’ve now installed around 3 million in our customers’ homes and businesses. For more information or to check if you’re eligible for a smart meter please visit Britishgas.co.uk/smart

LIB DEMS IN COMMUNICATIONS

Lib Dems in Communications is a network of public relations and public affairs professionals who are members of the Liberal Democrats. We also have a network specifically directed at digital communications.

We provide practical support and advice to the party and its candidates in the run-up to and during elections and we provide a forum for communications and public affairs professionals in the party to meet senior representatives of the media, the PR/public affairs world and each other. We also act as an informal network for our members to keep in touch and to exchange ideas and information.

Our activities have included events at the annual party conference, receptions and dinners with key note speakers from the media and public affairs arenas.
