ABOUT ME

I grew up in Kirkintilloch, just outside of Glasgow but I currently study History & Business Management at the University of Aberdeen. I joined the party in 2019, originally inspired by our policy on the European Union and I have been an enthusiastic member ever since. I'm standing for policy officer as I feel it's an area that has real capability to engage SYL members in a positive way, attempting to shape our party's policy.

MY PRIORITIES

- Lead membership-driven policy discussions on key issues where the Scottish Young Liberals can influence party policy positively. Our organisation has a strong record of getting policies into place historically, and with the Scottish Parliament election upcoming, we have a fantastic opportunity to make our mark on the SLD Manifesto.
- Provide more comprehensive support for young members aiming to propose policy to both Scottish and national conferences. In doing so, try to ensure that the diverse array of issues affecting young people and members in Scotland are represented adequately by both our organisation and the wider party.
- Attempt to use policy as a means to engage members who haven't been involved in the Scottish Young Liberals prior to this. People don't join the party just to deliver leaflets, policy is a great medium to attract younger members into the discussion, and grow our organisation ahead of next year's crucial elections.
