John Miller

Miller will address the controversies roiling college campuses across the country and provide an update on the state of free speech and intellectual diversity in academia.

Miller writes regularly for such publications as the Wall Street Journal and National Review. He is director of the Dow Journalism Program at Hillsdale College, oversees the school paper, and is founder of the Student Free Press Association, best known for its website The College Fix. The Fix is a highly successful venture, established as an outlet for student reporters whose stories might not otherwise be told. <https://www.thecollegefix.com/>

Miller graduated from the University of Michigan and was the editor of the Michigan Review. He has written a number of critically acclaimed books, including his most recent, “Big Scrum: How Teddy Roosevelt Saved Football” and the historical thriller, “First Assassin.”

His professional insights are particularly germane to the topic of the FAR-sponsored scholarship essay contest, open to all graduating high school seniors who reside in Farmington and Farmington Hills. The mayors of Farmington and Farmington Hills will be among the judges evaluating the essay submissions.
