

Chong's Policy on Cutting Taxes and Reducing Emissions

"Conservative MP and leadership candidate Michael Chong has offered a bold plan to cut taxes, help low income households, and reduce greenhouse gas emissions. It is by far the most sweeping plan of any of his fellow leadership contenders."

- Mark Cameron, former Director of Policy and Research to Prime Minister Stephen Harper

"This is quite remarkable; CPC leadership candidate Michael Chong pitches tax overhaul based on carbon tax [...] If you're a Conservative who a) takes economics seriously and b) genuinely favours small govt, Michael Chong's platform is worth a look."

-Stephen Gordon, Professor of Economics, Université

"There is a conservative rationale for a carbon tax in Canada and Michael Chong just spelled it out in an actual policy proposal."

-Kirsten Smith, researcher, Asia-Pacific Energy Research Centre

"What a policy proposal should look like. 1) Policy. 2) Background. Well done, Michael Chong."

-Andrew Leach, Associate Professor, University of Alberta

"This is absolutely fantastic."

-Andrew Coyne, National Post Journalist

"The level of detail in the report is truly impressive. He explicitly wants to raise the carbon price to $130 per tonne. That shows he's serious about meeting the 30 per cent reduction target — and he's serious about doing it in the most economically efficient way possible."

Trevor Tombe, Assistant Professor of Economics, University of Calgary