Michigan Freedom Fund: Michigan Provides Blueprint for Success that President Obama Should Follow

Michigan Recovery in Full Roar

LANSING, MI, January 7, 2015 –As President Barack Obama arrives in Michigan today to speak about the national economy, the Michigan Freedom Fund encouraged him to look to Lansing for a model for recovery that’s producing real results.

“Over the last 4 years, Governor Rick Snyder and the legislature have cut taxes, eliminated thousands of government rules and regulations, and made the tough calls to kickstart Michigan’s economic recovery,” said Michigan Freedom Fund President Greg McNeilly. “Now Michigan is number one in the nation in manufacturing job growth, number one in economic recovery, number one in personal income growth in the region, and Detroit is out of bankruptcy and on the comeback trail.

“Instead of once again giving a speech taking credit for a policy his predecessor instituted more than six years ago, the President’s time may be better used swinging by Lansing to ask Governor Snyder and conservative lawmakers how they’ve managed to create 300,000 new jobs while kicking Michigan’s economy into second gear.”
