As a long-time campaigner on disability rights both within the Labour Party and with WoW (War on Welfare) Campaign I believe I have the experience and knowledge to represent disabled members of the Labour Party.

From both personal experience and through my work I've seen the devastation wrought by the Tories and the hostile environment deliberately created towards disabled people. The 51% rise in hate crime against disabled people since 2018, the punitive effects of sanctions and the changes from DLA to PIP have created cumulative harm to ill and disabled people. This atmosphere has led to disabled people feeling their voices are being ignored - and that includes disabled members of the Labour Party.

As Co-Chair of Disability Labour, as well as being my CLP Secretary, I'm committed to ensuring that all members of this Party have a welcoming, fully accessible and outstanding time at Labour Party Conference. Having worked with the CAC previously, and having lobbied for a Disability Representative on the CAC extensively, I have the experience and determination needed to take on this position.

Thanks to the Democracy Review last year, disabled members are moving towards having their voice heard across the Party and having representation at all. I am standing for the Disability Representative on the CAC because I am determined to ensure your voices are heard and acted upon and to ensure we do everything we can as a Party to ensure all members are welcome and fully involved. I am proud to be supported by Momentum and Disability Labour. Thank you for your support.
