

BLUE VEINS IS COMMITTED TO BUILD, STRENGTHEN AND GALVANIZE WOMEN'S & TRANSGENDER PEOPLE COLLECTIVE POWER FOR A JUST AND SUSTAINABLE WORLD – FOR ALL.

Blue Veins believes every individual despite of their sexual orientation and gender identity should have the opportunity to shape their future by naming their hopes, aspirations and dreams. But too often, their voices are muted, suppressed, ignored. Blue Veins works to overcome the barriers silencing women/girls & transgender people.

Blue Veins is based in Peshawar, Pakistan, and works to empower women and transgender. They improve their status, and to overcome the barriers silencing women and girls. Blue Veins women affirm the humanity and dignity of all people, they believe to have the responsibility as well as the ability to create World from which injustice, inequity, inequality and oppression are gradually eliminated. Blue Veins is the only organization working for the wellbeing and protection of transgender community. TransAction Alliance is working to improve gender identity and gender reassignment equality, rights and inclusion in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa.

Qamar Naseem, coordinator for Blue Veins

Qamar is the programme coordinator for the women's organisation Blue Veins where he makes the exploitation of women and girls a subject of discussion and stands against traditional practices such as child and forced marriages. He wants his concerns to take root in society and so cooperates with religious and local decision makers as well as with community based organisations.
