OUR PLEDGE REGARDING HEALTH INFORMATION

We understand that information about health is personal. We are committed to protecting health information about you. We create a record of the care and services you receive at NCADD-NJ. This is usually referred to as your “chart.” We need this record to provide you with quality care and to comply with certain legal requirements. This Notice applies to all of the records of your care generated or maintained by NCADD-NJ, including by our employees and workforce.

This Notice will tell you about the ways in which we may use and disclose health information about you. We also describe your rights and certain obligations we have regarding the use and disclosure of health information. We will not acknowledge your participation with NCADD-NJ to anyone, including family members and friends, unless we obtain your written consent or are otherwise required to disclose your involvement with NCADD-NJ by a court order. Unless we obtain your written consent, we will also not disclose any information that would identify you as an individual with a substance use disorder, nor will we disclose any other health/mental health information, which is protected by federal and/or state law except as otherwise permitted or required by law.

Anytime you give your written consent, you have the right to revoke this consent, in writing, except to the extent we may have already taken action in reliance on your previously given consent. For example, if you have received treatment services, and then later revoke your consent, we are permitted to disclose your information to your insurance company in order for payment to be obtained for those treatment services which were provided.

The law requires us to:

- Make sure that health information that identifies you is kept private;
- Give you this Notice of our legal duties and privacy practices with respect to health information about you; and
- Follow the terms of the most recent version of this Notice that is currently in effect.
